COPPERHEAD MOCCASIN This dangerous reptile is the villain of two recent snakebite stories in the Clipper. The Copperhead Moccasin is found around the house or in fields of this area. This one was found in the driveway of his house by Mr. Elmer Taylor. He took the snake to the Swine Diagnostic Lab for positive identification and it was confirmed as a poisonous snake.

Other business included the appointment of a committee to plan for the construction of a community pool in the Mulberry Heights area. Appointed to this committee were Mayor Mullins, Professor Patton and Lutenant Wade.

The Council also received a complaint of automobiles speeding in all parts of town. Mayor Mullins and the police department plan a crackdown on the speedsters.

Students Start Tour

Twenty-seven excited students and three coordinators, Mr. and Mrs. Marion Brunson and Mrs. Tera Averett, departed for Europe on Tuesday morning, July 11th. The group left by jet from Dothan at seven A.M. to Atlanta and then on into New York, New York, where they had a three hour tour of the city.

City Council Accepts Jaycee House Numbers

The Elba City Council met Monday night at the City Hall and the first order of business was to accept a house numbering plan prepared by the Elba Jaycees. The Jaycees have worked long and hard on this project and the finished product reveals the care that was taken in completing the project. Current plans call for homeowners to place numbers on all the homes in the city limits as soon as possible. This is a postal regulation also. This regulation stated that no mail will be delivered to a home that is not plainly numbered.

Other business included the appointment of a committee to plan for the construction of a community pool in the Mulberry Heights area. Appointed to this committee were Mayor Mullins, Professor Patton and Lutenant Wade.

The Council also received a complaint of automobiles speeding in all parts of town. Mayor Mullins and the police department plan a crackdown on the speedsters.

Archaeologist Have Field Day At Recently Discovered Indian Site

Of much interest to those interested in the early development of our country is a project taking place in Franklin County which has become the "hottest ground" for archaeologists in their search for knowledge of man's prehistoric travels through time.

A flat field slightly overlooking Cedar Creek east of Belgreen is the scene of this most current effort of the Alabama Archaeological Society, University of Alabama's "dig" in Franklin County, University of Alabama students and members of the Society are performing the actual work at the site under the direction and supervision of David L. DeJarente, Associate Professor, Department of Sociology and Anthropology, University of Alabama and Curator of Archaeology, University of Alabama Museums.

The site was discovered recently when a farmer was plowing in the field and a skull was unearthed. Further investigation turned up a whole skeleton and it was realized that this was a burial ground for some early Indians. It is reported that although this usually is the only way they have of locating a site many are ruined by interested people who mean well but do not understand the disturbing of a site by an un-supervised dig produces only worthless curios. In order to contribute to history through science it must be authenticated by experts and much damage can be done to what might be a valuable piece of information.

Erosion and cultivation at the site have caused the remains of hundreds of years to be placed at the same level on the top of the ground which also hinders the work of relating the artifacts to a specific location in time.

According to reports from archaeologist there were people living in Alabama 10,000 years ago. A team of diggers have been unearthing skeletons, pottery, pottery fragments and other objects at the Franklin County site. Discoveries along rivers and streams in this region are evidence of the early dwellers. The early Indian did not use bow and arrows which came into use about 2,000 years ago, it is reported by the team. Previously, the Indians used spears and similar hunting weapons.

The earliest evidence of agriculture found in this area dates to about 200 A.D., the team reports. The Indians were growing and harvesting corn. Besides eating the vegetables, it is reported, the Indians used it for other purposes. The corn cob, for instance, was used to make a pattern on pottery. Unearthed skeletons show that some Indians of the 32nd century had their head with beads.

The team of archaeologists state that Fort Toulouse near Wetumpka is one of the richest sites for this work despite diggings that have occurred there for about 30 years. Work in the Fort Toulouse park area has produced evidence that at least two different groups of Indians lived there. The first fort was built by the French in the 1700s.

The pebble tool presents one of the biggest mysteries to face archaeologists today and it is hoped that the site in Franklin County will shed more light on the subject. The question they hope to answer is who made and how they used these earliest tools of mankind in Alabama and elsewhere in the western world. One type of the pebble tool is known to residents as "arrow heads." Along with these are hand size stones that are oval, usually flat the hand and have an extremely sharp edge. It was once thought that these tools must have been chipped by natural forces, such as bounced around in streams, because men weren't supposed to have migrated to this part of the world until a few hundred years ago.

These archaeologists state that science and man could be greatly helped by people who know of any possible sites to notify the University of Alabama Archaeological Society. The prospective sites must not be disturbed or their value may be destroyed, they state. In order for the site to be productive the pebble tools must be found in the earth that can be dated by modern laboratories. These are bones or something that was once living. This is the main reason that sites must not be disturbed by anyone other than an archaeologist.

Possible sites can be located on fragments on the top of the ground such as arrowheads, bits of clay pottery, or soapstone bowls, flint chips or the pebble tools.

One of the skeletons which was removed from the Franklin County site was described as being a male about 30 years old.

Heat ---
Take It Easy This Summer

You can't really beat the heat. Whether it's the heat or the humidity or both, it's hot in almost all of the United States in July. After weeks of sweating and steaming, it's not uncommon to find the heat is beginning to wear you down.

You can't do anything about the outside temperature. You can avoid it if you're fortunate enough to work and live in air-conditioned comfort, but it still will be hot outside.

The American Medical Association points out that there are some things you can do to make your summer more comfortable—things that can help you beat the heat.

Stay out of the sun as much as possible, especially during the middle of the day when rays are hottest. Wear light, loose clothing. The ladies have an edge over the men in this respect. Drink more liquids than usual, but take extra salt only on your physician's advice, particularly if you have liver or kidney trouble or a heart condition.

Take a shower or dip in the pool once or twice a day to cool off. Get plenty of rest and sleep. Eat your regular diet and don't go overboard on cold cuts and salads, unless you like them anyway.

Get up early in the morning so you can avoid the heat of the day.

Work in the garden, or work at dusk in the evening, but try to avoid heavy exertion during the hottest hours of the day. There is a sound physical reason behind the sista custom of the tropics.

You need exercise in the summer as well as in the winter, but don't overdo it, especially on extra hot days. Don't overdo physical exertion, whether at work or at play.

The more relaxed and cool life of the summer months has many advantages to compensate for the heat. Stay relaxed and use common sense and you can beat the heat—at least somewhat.

McLeod Warns Of Swimming Dangers

Swimming is one of America's most popular and healthful recreations. Dr. C.D. McLeod of the Coffee Health Department today urged swimmers and private pool owners to make it a safer recreation. Last year over 5,000 deaths by drowning occurred, he said, and many of them could have been prevented if two basic rules had been followed: know your limitations as a swimmer, and swim only in well supervised areas. "No matter how good a swimmer you are, it's good sense to stay where help would be nearby in an emergency," Dr. McLeod pointed out. "Private backyard pools are becoming more popular and present some special hazards of their own. Often no adult trained in life saving and artificial respiration is on hand when such a pool is being used. Dr. McLeod pointed out that in 1965, the first year comprehensive statistics were kept for such accidents, 246 drownings occurred in private pools, and 34 of these were in portable, on-surface pools. Dr. McLeod also suggested this checklist to help find and eliminate dangerous situations around backyard pools.

1. Have a high fence around the pool with a gate that can be locked.
2. Be sure brackings on fences around pools are on the inside so children can't climb in.
3. Keep electric lines, such as those used for poolside lighting, where they can't be blown or dropped into the water.
4. Have a floatable "shepherd's hook" made of a lightweight pole with a metal hook at one end. Keep it near poolside and show children how to use it to pull distressed swimmers to safety.

Applications for G. I. home loans increased from 322 in April to 457 in May, G. A. Harris, Loan Guaranty Officer at the Veterans Administration Regional Office in Montgomery, reported today. The 42 percent increase over the preceding month also represented a 12 percent increase over May 1966.

More than 80 percent of the applications were from post-Korean Conflict veterans eligible under the 1966 G. I. Bill, Harris pointed out.

During July and August many people involved in pest control should know and follow good common sense in applying pesticides. When you are in a field start pest control work on downwind side of the field and apply in cross-

ROSES
July rains and dewy nights will make roses look a fright—unless they are protected by weekly applications of Phalant. It is very important to make weekly applications of Phalant using one and one-half tablespoon per each gallon of water plus one teaspoon of a good liquid detergent. Rose growers should pick one afternoon each week between four o'clock and dark. The Phalant sprays will control not only black spots but also powdery mildew.

LAWNS
Lawns should be watched carefully for brown patch and dollar spots. If these diseases are suspected, samples should be sent to the Plant Disease Clinic for identification and recommendations. If it is definitely known that the lawn has brown patch or dollar spots, the turf should be treated with a fungicide such as Daconil plus a good liquid detergent.

Cancer Society Allots Funds To University

The American Cancer Society, currently conducting its annual fund-raising drive to provide funds for scientific research and other needs, has announced new grants totaling $36,588 for studies at the University of Alabama Medical Center here.

Through its national research program, the American Cancer Society allocated $18,888 to Dr. Charles M. Baugh to study the histogenesis of follicular lymphoma at the University of Alabama Medical Center, in Birmingham.

The Society's national program made a grant of $10,000 to Dr. Charles M. Kochakian for the same period to support a summer student assistant project.

In addition, the Alabama Division of the American Cancer Society awarded an amount of $7,500 to Dr. Kochakian to help support the same project.

Through public support given the American Society in its fund raising efforts, the Society has spent more than $1,835,000 in national research at Alabama institutions, including the Medical Center, Auburn University, and Southern Research Institute in Birmingham.

In addition to supporting research to find the causes and cures of cancer, the American Cancer Society, Alabama Division, has been working to save lives of Alabamians by informing the public about cancer. This is done through educational films, literature meetings with employee groups in business and industry, programs for men's and women's civic clubs, activities in public, parochial and private schools, and newspaper, radio and television publicity.

The Alabama Division pays the cost of transportation for medically indigent cancer patients to and from cancer clinics operated by the State of Alabama under supervision of the State Health Department. The Society also pays for pain relieving medicines and dressings for medically indigent cancer patients.

Sixty per cent of all funds raised by the American Cancer Society are given to the University of Alabama Medical Center summer project under a previous grant made by the American Cancer Society.

A school of Music will be taught at Ebenezer Baptist church, during the week of June 25-30. The pastor, Royce Wise, announces that the teacher will be Miss Joanna Wilder, an approved worker for the Church Music Department, Baptist State Executive Board.

The school will provide music training for all ages. The class for children, ages 9-12, will meet at 1:30 each day. The evening sessions begin at 7:30 p.m. for all over thirteen years who are interested in sight-singing, song leading and more reading.

Miss Wilder is a student at Carson Newman Baptist College, Jefferson City, Tennessee, and a member of the college choir. She is a volunteer for her local church at Wetumpka, Ala.

RETIRING Mr. George Johnson, left, is shown receiving a gold wrist watch from Doney Trailer Personnel Manager Olen Bailey last Friday afternoon. The ceremonies were in recognition of his loyal service to the company during the past. Johnson retired and plans to visit several members of his family in different parts of the United States before he settles down to try out a new reef and rod given to him by the men in his department.

Skeleton Is Identified

Last Wednesday and Thursday additional parts of a human skeleton in the same area that two boys found a human skull last week. The bones were in a creek bed behind the New Haven Baptist Church.

Thursday, Sheriff H. D. Tillman and the State Toxicologist made a thorough search of the area and found almost all of the bones of a man believed to be Ivey Armstrong, of Elba, who disappeared about eight or ten months ago. This conclusion was reached using a number of clues including a billfold found with some of the bones that contained the name of Armstrong.

Local citizens searching Wednesday afternoon found several bones, including a leg bone that had fragments of flesh still attached and some skin with hair on it.

Sheriff Tillman stated that he has not received a final report from the State Toxicologist.

Griffin To Be Honored For Service To 4-H

E. C. Griffin of Elba will be honored in Auburn Tuesday night (July 25) for his 30 years of service to the 4-H youth of Alabama.

Making the presentation will be Dr. Fred R. Robertson, Auburn University vice president for extension, at a state 4-H awards program.

Griffin, principal of Curtis Junior High, was nominated for the honor by the Coffee County Extension staff.

In his years as local 4-H leader at Curtis Junior High, Griffin has made an impression on club members with his patience and enthusiasm. For a number of years he has encouraged participation in special 4-H Club projects such as beef, hog, and poultry, numerous contests and other 4-H work.

"Perhaps Mr. Griffin's chief attribute as an effective 4-H Club leader has been his ability to motivate young people to participate without reservation in 4-H Club activities and project work," said the local Extension staff in making the nomination.

When presented a 30-year certificate at a local leaders' recognition dinner in 1966, Griffin said, "It has been pleasant work, especially watching students go forth to do worthy things in life using many of the principles learned in 4-H Club work."

Griffin, throughout the years has encouraged boys to undertake projects that required hard work and has insisted they carry the projects through to completion.

Other 4-H leaders named to receive the award were Mrs. Gild Redding of Courtland, Mrs. Dan Waite Jr. of Centre, Ronald Oliver of Jasper, Prentice Sanders of Vernon, Mrs. Ruby Smith of Northport, W. R. Story of Livingston, W. M. Albrighton of Wetumpka, Edmond P. Garrett of Decatur and Ed Teague of Montgomery.

Post Office To Extend Parcel Post

Postmaster Robert Cooper today announced that parcel post deliveries in Elba will be expanded from five day delivery to six day delivery as of July 15, 1967.

The boundaries of the expanded service include coverage of streets now served by city carrier service plus a few larger designated firms outside the city carrier service boundaries.

This is in line with a recent directive from Postmaster General Lawrence F. O'Brien following the signing of the Post Office Department appropriation bill by President Johnson. The legislation contains an $8.5 million item for restoration of the six day a week delivery which had been cut back in May 1964 as an economy measure.

Nearly 5000 cities are affected, Postmaster Cooper said.

The Elba postal official noted that the improved service will remove an inequity for many business and residential routes.

Postal customers served by "motorized" letter carriers have been receiving six-day deliveries all along. They were not covered by the 1964 cut back inasmuch as carriers on vehicles can deliver parcels of any size. Customers living on routes served by foot carriers have received larger parcels from a five-day a week parcel post route covered by a truck. Carriers on foot only deliver small packages.

The Elba City Council reappointed Robert Marsh to the Zoning Board and appointed Councilman Donnie Morrow to fill a vacancy. This action was taken at the regular meeting held Monday night.
